OUR GUEST

GUANTE is a hip hop artist, two-time National Poetry Slam champion, social justice activist, educator and writer. He and/or his work has appeared on Upworthy, MSNBC, Racialicious, Feministing, MPR, and City Pages' "Artists of the Year".

Guante's work explores the intersections of art, media and social justice education; to that end, he facilitates workshops on identity, power and privilege, founded the MN Activist Project and Hip Hop Against Homophobia concert series, writes essays and op-eds, and works with COMPAS, TruArtSpeaks and others to engage in artist residencies around writing and performance for youth.

Additionally, we will feature an award winning video from the National History Day project. Mary Jo Dalsin (7th grade) won third place in the national event for her documentary, "Japanese Internment: Rights, Responsibilities, and Reparations"
